NAVPS UP 12.5% Y/Y; DIVIDEND RAISED TO €0.20 / SHARE

Full year reporting confirmed prelims and the company's strategic focus on the strong health care sector. MPH Health Care reported net income of €32m for the year. NAVPS climbed to €5.6 compared to €4.8 in H1/17 and €5.0 YE16. The performance was driven by the core listed holdings: HAEMATO AG, M1 Kliniken AG and CR Capital Real Estate AG. Management will propose a €0.20 / share dividend to the AGM on 11 July. This is a significant increase on the €0.12 dividend paid out the past years and corresponds to a 4.6% yield. Our updated sum-of-the-parts model yields a €7.10 price target (old: €6.90). We maintain our Buy rating.

Core holdings spur bottom line and NAV accretion After a sluggish H1/17 in which MPH reported a net loss of €-2.2m, the company booked profits of €34m in the final six months to exit the year with €32m in net income. The bottom line was also ahead of our projection (FBe: €27m). NAV climbed to €241m (2016: €214m) corresponding to NAVPS of €5.6 (+12.5%). More recently, MPH also reported KPIs for the three month period. Q1/18 net income totalled €27m and NAV reached €267m. NAVPS was €6.3 (+11% YTD) and represents a 21% premium to the share price. The strong start to 2018 owes chiefly to positive share price developments for HAEMATO (+15% YTD) and M1 Kliniken (+12% YTD) spurred by their respective boosted positive full year results (see overleaf).

Dividend boosted 67% Y/Y to €0.20 / share The financial assets position entailing the three listed holdings remains the dominant line item on the balance sheet and rose to €249m in 2017 (2016: €220m; +13%). Shareholders' equity of €241m compares to a balance sheet total of €257m at year end. The 94% equity ratio matched the prior year level. MPH exited the year with cash and cash equivalents of €1.2m. Given the expected dividend payouts from the three listed holdings, MPH plans to pay out an increased dividend of €0.20 / share to shareholders. This is a 67% increase on the prior two years (€0.12 /share) and equates to an attractive 4.6% yield. Although MPH has no firm dividend policy, we expect the DPS to remain around the €0.20 level, assuming the portfolio performance remains steady. (p.t.o.)

The business focus of MPH is to take majority stakes in companies well positioned in growing segments of the German healthcare industry and create value for investors with these holdings. These are exposed to both the insurance- and privately-financed health care segments. Each participation benefits from strong market trends including concerns over rising healthcare costs, beauty and lifestyle trends, and a fundamentally attractive residential property market. MPH is likewise exposed to strong trends in the real estate sector with its stake in CR Capital AG—a developer affordable residential housing.

As in the prior years, the portfolio remains dominated by HAEMATO AG, M1 Kliniken AG and CR Capital AG—which realised aggregate share price appreciation of 12.7% last year and will all distribute dividends. In 2017, dividends received by MPH totalled €7.4m. We expect this to top €8m this year with the first time CR Capital payout. We expect do not expect any asset rotation or portfolio additions in the term, given the attractive upside of the existing constituents to drive value creation.

Positive impulses from the healthcare and beauty-lifestyle sectors HAEMATO presently benefits from favourable market conditions for cancer therapy and oncology products, where it traditionally generates some 60% of its turnover. Operations are prospering from improved sourcing, higher margin products in the sales mix, and improved production and logistics at the Berlin distribution facility. We believe the launch of its own branded hyaluronic acid products is a pivotal step in the evolution of HAEMATO's operations. Traction with high margin proprietary medical products can potentially offset some of the sourcing fluctuations associated with core operations.

M1 is likewise thriving from strong market tailwinds with beauty-lifestyle services becoming more and more popular supported by greater prosperity to afford vanity treatments. Management guide for double digit revenue and earnings growth in 2018, driven by newly added surgical capacity—including the recently opened Essen facility—and ongoing expansion. With a broad regional footprint on its home turf, M1 plans to take more of a pan-European growth approach in the future. We believe the company will look to initially branch out into the Austrian and Swiss markets late in the year.

Meanwhile, property market fundamentals are healthier than most think A “rates tantrum” weighed heavily on sentiment for real estate sector early in Q1/18, as investors sold positions fearing rate hikes and a major sector collapse. However, we believe the worst of the storm has passed and think the German residential housing sector remains fundamentally attractive for property developers. The sector continues to be characterised by low levels of supply, and new-build completions are unable to keep pace with demand and migration to urban German hubs.

Apartment prices continue to climb thanks to the persistent housing shortages, which were estimated at some one million residential units in 2017. Although 2018 is the tenth year of the current cycle, we expect housing prices and rental growth to remain ascendant across metropolitan hubs in the coming years until: (1) supply substantially rises; (2) occupancy rates move higher; (3) demand for housing abates; and (4) interest rates rise significantly.

We expect this environment to persist, which should provide good opportunities for CR Capital. Operationally, CR Capital’s core project development activities are currently centred on the Schkeuditz project in Leipzig. The Leipzig construction pipeline has a total volume of €150m, which we expect the company to realise over the next five years providing excellent visibility. CR Capital has also secured another project pipeline in Dresden, Germany to further boost mid-term visibility.

HEMATO offsets lacklustre H1 with strong H2 HAEMATO reported solid full year revenue and earnings after a sluggish H1. Revenue (€289m) set the second consecutive high water mark in the company's brief history, as HAEMATO continued to gain market share as a supplier of specialty pharmaceuticals. The company prospered from its position as specialist in the therapeutic areas of oncology, HIV / AIDS and other chronic diseases as well as operational improvements implemented early in 2017. HAEMATO also shipped its first branded Hyaluronic acid (HA) based creams in December as it awaits approval on further HA products. The process is in the advanced stages, and we expect CE Marking (European Conformity) by the end of the year. This will open the door for HAEMATO to sell high margin injectables. Based on the strong 2017 performance, HAEMATO management will propose a €0.30 dividend (5% yield) to shareholders at the 4 July AGM.

SUM-OF-THE-PARTS MODEL

We use a sum-of-the-parts valuation methodology to value MPH. Value is driven by the projected fair value of HAEMATO, M1 Beauty, and CR Capital, which we have valued separately on a DCF basis. Based on the current stakes, we derive a fair value of €321m for the listed holdings. We add the book value of the non-listed holdings to this figure and subtract the 2017 net debt and holding costs. Given the 42.8m shares outstanding (SO), we now see fair value for MPH at €7.10 per share (previously: €6.90) corresponding to a Buy rating. We regard MPH as an attractive opportunity for investors seeking exposure to the growing affordable health care and housing segments with shares currently trading some 25% below NAVPS of €6.3.

In the following First Berlin provides investors with information about the statutory provisions that are to be observed in the preparation of financial analyses.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

In accordance with Section 34b Paragraph 1 of the German Securities Trading Act [WpHG] and Regulation (EU) No 596/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council of April 16, 2014, on market abuse (market abuse regulation) financial analyses may only be passed on or publicly distributed if circumstances or relations which may cause conflicts of interest among the authors, the legal entities responsible for such preparation or companies associated with them are disclosed along with the financial analysis.

First Berlin offers a range of services that go beyond the preparation of financial analyses. - The author, First Berlin, or a company associated with First Berlin provided investment banking or consulting services for the analysed company within the past twelve months for which remuneration was or was to be paid;

The remuneration of the author of the financial analysis stands in no direct or indirect connection with the recommendations or opinions represented in the financial analysis. Furthermore, the remuneration of the author of the financial analysis is neither coupled directly to financial transactions nor to stock exchange trading volume or asset management fees.

If despite these measures one or more of the aforementioned conflicts of interest cannot be avoided on the part of the author or First Berlin, then reference shall be made to such conflict of interest.
