First sale of Ikoniscope20

Ikonisys has announced the first sale of its Ikoniscope20 microscope solution together with reagents. The sale is, in our view, a first proof that the commercialization strategy of migrating existing users of Ikonisys' former Ikoniscope Gen1 platform into users of the state-of-art Ikoniscope20 technology is correctly chosen and being implemented. With the purchase, the buyer, Los Angeles-based "Comprehensive Urology", a leading urology practice serving the greater Beverly Hills area, will upgrade its system and also utilize the optimized reagents provided by Ikonisys to perform bladder cancer molecular diagnosis based on diagnostic fluorescence in situ hybridisation (FISH) applications.

Compared to the first generation, of which the company has shipped 46 units (40 of them in the US), the Ikoniscope20 is not only smaller (comparable to a microwave versus a refrigerator-sized unit) and lighter (about 50 kg versus 400 kg of the first generation), but also faster and more versatile. The Ikoniscope20 microscope enables fully automated detection, classification, and quantification of rare and very rare cells in tissues and biological fluids. None of the larger competitors has, in our view, currently achieved such a high level of automation as Ikonisys.

With the launch of the Ikoniscope20, product sales will play a far greater role in the future. In this context, the conversion of software sales to a SaaS model, and the entry into probe sales have, according to our estimates, laid the foundations for increasing sales to EUR 35.7m by 2026e, corresponding to an expected CAGR 2021-26e of 138.3%, and for reaching operating profitability by 2024e.

We expect the sale to one of Ikonisys' long-term customers and key opinion leaders to pave way for further sales and accelerate the company's commercial activities in North America. Based on our three-stage discounted cash flow entity model, which we consider the primary valuation method for the Ikonisys shares, we confirm our 24-months price target of EUR 6.90 per share and our Buy rating for the shares of Ikonisys SA.

In the medium term, our base case scenario results in an equity value of EUR 85.0m or EUR 6.90 per share (fully diluted)

Value of equity of EUR 85.0m or EUR 6.90 per share (fully diluted)

We calculate a nearly unchanged enterprise value of Ikonisys of EUR 76.6m. From this, 33.1% is derived via the terminal value, 9.5% and 57.4% from the cash flows generated in the detailed and rough planning phase, respectively. Including the adjusted net cash position at the end of financial year 2021 of approx. EUR 8.4m (based on the excess cash, including potential proceeds from the convertible issuance) this results in an equity value of EUR 85.0m or EUR 6.90 per share (fully diluted).

Scenario analysis through Monte Carlo simulation

We then performed a Monte Carlo simulation to interrogate the sensitivities of the enterprise value with respect to the independent input variables. We performed a multivariate analysis and tested the results of the DCF model according to the following seven criteria and specific standard deviations ( $\sigma$ ).

Results of Monte Carlo simulation

The 10% and 90% quantiles yield equity values of EUR 64.7m (EUR 5.26 share, fully diluted) and EUR 93.2m (EUR 7.58 per share, fully diluted), respectively. The results of our Monte Carlo simulation are summarised in the following left-steep-right-skewed distribution:

Multiples in achieving our valuation results

On the basis of our financial forecasts and if the value of equity determined by us (base case scenario of the DCF valuation model) of EUR 6.90 per share is reached, Ikonisys would be valued at the following multiples:

Downside risks to our valuation

We see the following downside risks for the achievement of our price target:

- Ⓢ No proof of a profitable business model: At the end of the 2021 financial year, Ikonisys has accumulated losses of more than EUR 100m, primarily incurred from research and development expenses, design, manufacturing, and marketing of the first and second generation Ikoniscope and diagnostic software applications. At this stage, Ikonisys has not yet conclusively proven that it has a business model that can be operated profitably on a sustainable basis.
- Ⓢ Dependence on suppliers: Outsourcing significant parts of production to a contract manufacturer has the advantage of a lean organisational structure, but the disadvantage that the contract manufacturer may not have the necessary production capacity and tools to supply Ikonisys with the quantities demanded.
- Ⓢ Regulated business model: Ikonisys' earnings situation is at least in part indirectly dependent on the level of reimbursement by public health authorities, private health insurers and managed care organisations.
- Ⓢ Translation risks from currency conversion: According to our estimates, Ikonisys will generate the majority of its revenues in the USD area for the foreseeable future. This exposes the company, which reports in euros, to translation risks from currency conversion.
- Ⓢ Possible, but unlikely, liability risks from wrong treatment could arise from patients or laboratories attributing responsibility to Ikonisys for medical decisions based on Ikoniscope's laboratory results.

Catalysts for performance

Our target price is derived from our expected base case scenario. In doing so, we have applied surcharges to the cost of equity, as we consider Ikonisys to be a company in the start-up phase. Without factoring in these early-stage premiums, the price target derived from the DCF model would increase by around EUR 2.50 per share to EUR 9.40 per share according to our calculations.

In addition, we see the following items as the most important catalysts for the development of Ikonisys' enterprise value of in the coming months:

- ⑤ Faster success in market penetration with the Ikoniscope20;
- ⑤ Achieving profitability faster than we expect.

The Ikonisys solution: Complete automation of workflows

Under the name Ikoniscope, Ikonisys has developed a robotic and software-supported microscopy application that, according to the company, enables fully automated detection and quantification of rare and very rare cells in tissues and biological fluids. This is used in particular for cell diagnosis in oncology and genetic diseases. Ikonisys provides a range of diagnostic fluorescence in situ hybridisation tests, or FISH tests, which can be used to visually identify different types of cancer at an early stage using fluorescent tumour markers. We see considerable additional potential in the recently possible detection and characterisation of circulating tumour cells (CTCs) in liquid biopsies.

Business model at a glance

The advantage of the Ikonisys application is the almost complete automation of an otherwise labour-intensive and time-consuming - and therefore expensive, as well as error-prone - process. According to the company, by implementing the Ikoniscope platform, the subjective elements of diagnosis can be largely eliminated, and the quality and consistency of diagnoses significantly improved. In addition, the automation of the platform can significantly increase the daily testing volume in the laboratories.

In our estimation, Ikonisys is serving a structurally increasing market volume driven by the growing use of non-invasive diagnostic tests for the (early) detection, treatment, and monitoring of cancer - a consequence of the globally rising cancer prevalence, the availability of new molecular and immunological biomarkers for different types of cancer, and increasingly automated sample preparation. Another trend factor is personalised therapies, which are usually associated with complex diagnostic tests.

The entire scanning process is efficiently controlled by hardware and imaging algorithms. This allows slides to be scanned quickly while producing high quality, optimally focused and exposed images of cells that appear malignant. This automation of workflow significantly reduces dependence on the subjective skills of laboratory staff.

Declarations pursuant to Section 85 (1) WpHG and Article 20 Regulation (EU) No 596/2014 and Delegated Regulation (EU) 2016/958:

Sources of information

The study is based on information obtained from carefully selected publicly available sources, in particular financial data providers, the publications of the analysed company and other publicly available media.

Valuation principles/methods/risks and parameters

Company-specific methods from fundamental share analysis, quantitative statistical methods and models as well as procedures from technical analysis were used for the preparation of the study (inter alia historical valuation approaches, substance valuation approaches or sum-of-the-parts valuation approaches, discounting models, the economic profit approach, multiplier models or peer group comparisons). Valuation models depend on economic variables such as currencies, interest rates, commodities and economic assumptions. In addition, market sentiment and political developments influence company valuations. The approaches chosen are also based on expectations that can change quickly and without warning depending on industry-specific developments. Consequently, the recommendations and price targets also based on the individual models can change accordingly. The investment recommendations based on a period of twelve or 24 months may also be subject to market conditions and therefore represent a snapshot. The expected price developments may be achieved more quickly or more slowly or may be revised upwards or downwards.
