Solid start into FY24 despite challenging end markets

Topic: Nynomic published a solid start into the year with order intake returning to growth for the first time since Q3 2022. Similar to FY23, this year's operational performance should again be back-end loaded.

Preliminary Q1 sales grew by 6.5% yoy to € 23m thanks to consolidation effects from last year's acquisitions of NLIR and art photonics (eNuW +4.5% yoy growth) as well as solid demand across the group's portfolio companies, despite a weak industry momentum. At the same time, Q1 EBIT stood at € 1.6m, up 6.7% yoy, with a margin of roughly 7%. Mind you, the low margin (in comparison to FY margin of >13%) is due to the seasonallity of the business, a changing product mix and limited op. leverage.

Importantly, order intake returned to growth for the first time since Q3 2022. It grew by 24% yoy and 57% qoq to € 28.7m. This does not yet include the high single-digit €m order (eNuW: € 7-8m) that the company received at the end of April (solution to further improve the efficiency and accuracy of the customer's gas analysis); order backlog +11% qoq to € 59.6m. This should provide additional visibility regarding the mentioned sequential improvements throughout the year.

Similar to FY23, management again expects further operational improvements in the second quarter, followed by a particularly strong second half of the year (in FY23, H2 accounted for 55% of FY sales and 70% of FY EBIT) due to the known lumpy nature of the business.

For FY24e, management continues to expect "at least single-digit percentage growth" and a further EBIT margin improvement, which compares to our estimates of 12% yoy sales growth (8% organic) and a 60bps EBIT margin improvement based on (1) unbroken demand from semi customers, (2) fulfilment precision farming orders, (3) TactiScan gaining traction, (4) a structurally growing medtech market and (5) new product launches such as LabScanner Plus.

Acquisitions could serve as additional catalyst. As per its growth strategy, Nynomic should be looking to acquire 1-2 companies (technological and geographical diversification) during the next six months. Thanks to its strong balance sheet, we also regard bigger targets ($\sim \in 20$ m sales) as possible.

We confirm our BUY rating with an unchanged € 52 PT based on DCF and keep the stock on our Alpha List.

4. Information Concerning the Methods of Valuation/Update

The determination of the fair value per share, i.e. the price target, and the resultant rating is done on the basis of the adjusted free cash flow (adj. FCF) method and on the basis of the discounted cash flow – DCF model. Furthermore, a peer group comparison is made.

The adj. FCF method is based on the assumption that investors purchase assets only at a price (enterprise value) at which the operating cash flow return after taxes on this investment exceeds their opportunity costs in the form of a hurdle rate of 7.5%. The operating cash flow is calculated as EBITDA less maintenance capex and taxes.

Within the framework of the DCF approach, the future free cash flows are calculated initially on the basis of a fictitious capital structure of 100% equity, i.e. interest and repayments on debt capital are not factored in initially. The adjustment towards the actual capital structure is done by discounting the calculated free cash flows with the weighted average cost of capital (WACC), which takes into account both the cost of equity capital and the cost of debt. After discounting, the calculated total enterprise value is reduced by the interest-bearing debt capital in order to arrive at the equity value.

NuWays AG uses the following three-step rating system for the analysed companies:

Buy: Sustainable upside potential of more than 20% within 12 months

Sell: Sustainable downside potential of more than 20% within 12 months.

Hold: Upside/downside potential is limited. No immediate catalyst visible.
