Strong business momentum in 2024

Net Result

(€m)

Increased earnings based on strong client business despite burdens outside ongoing business

RoTE

Improved return profile targeting RoTE of at least 8% for 2024 subject to further development of legal provisioning needs

CET1 ratio

Strong capital ratio underpins significant capital return potential

Strong performance in a dynamic macro
environment

Delayed pick-up of German GDP

Wage inflation requires high cost discipline and could impact rates trajectory

Pick-up in investment loan demand from corporate clients, but still from a low base

Customer-centric business model with high asset quality – risk result driven by single cases

Delivering on management priorities for 2024

 Ensure delivery of targeted capital return > Applied for first tranche of next buyback with H1 results

 Grow fee income > Continued good progress in Q2 – Aquila Capital acquisition closed in June

 Strict performance & execution management > Continuous improvement process delivering on complexity reduction

 Strengthen customer loyalty > Successful launch of small merchant focused mobile digital payment service by Commerz Globalpay (JV with Global Payments)

 Improve employee satisfaction > Multi-year wage increases for all employees based on collective bargaining agreement

Key take-aways from H1 2024

Moving Forward

We had a very strong H1 2024

We confirm our outlook for 2024

We target a pay-out ratio¹ of at least 70%

1) Pay-out ratio based on net result after potential (fully discretionary) AT1 coupon payments; pay-out not exceeding net result after potential AT1 coupon payments

Q2 Revenues up 1.5% YoY – solid revenue growth based on high level of client activity in both customer segments more than compensated €395m burdens from FX loan provisions, Credit Holidays in Poland and a Russia-related court case

Net interest income (NII) 2% lower YoY and QoQ with volume growth partially offsetting higher pass-through rate (deposit beta)

Net commission income (NCI) up 4.5% YoY mainly due to better securities business and increased activity level of corporate clients

Net fair value result (NFV) reflects partial offset of NII – in Corporate Clients good contribution from capital markets business

Other income excluding provisions for FX loans reflects burdens from Credit Holidays and Russia, partially compensated by positive contributions from legacy positions

NII maintained at high level despite ECB rate cut

Net interest income (€m)

Corporate Clients (CC) growth of investment loans – QoQ lower NII contribution from deposits due to increasing deposit beta at stable volumes

Private and Small-Business Customers Germany (PSBC Germany) with ongoing growth in call deposits QoQ at positive margins partially offsetting higher beta. Additionally, early repayment of mortgages and day-count effects have led to lower NII in PSBC, offset in O&C mBank with higher NII QoQ based on continued effective deposit margin management and loan growth

Others & Consolidation (O&C) with higher NII QoQ mainly reflecting other side of the effects from early repayment of mortgages and day-count in PSBC

Growth in loan volumes and call deposits

Loan volume (Group ex mBank)

(Quarterly average in €bn)

CC with growth in investment loans across client base

German mortgage business stable with new business above last quarter and up 23% YoY

Consumer finance book stable at €3.1bn

Deposit volume (Group ex mBank)

(Quarterly average in €bn)

CC largely stable deposit volume with ongoing shift from sight to term and call deposits

Strong growth in PSBC deposit volume driven by inflows into call accounts and reduced outflow of sight deposits

NII outlook ~€8.1bn confirmed with upside potential

Development of NII¹ (€bn)

ECB deposit rates

Average ECB deposit rate expected at 3.8% in 2024
(~€45m annualized sensitivity to +/-10bps in ECB rate)

Deposit volume

Deposit volume increased by ~€9bn in Q2 due to strong inflow of call money – in line with lower rates offered to customers softer trend expected in the next quarters

Deposit beta²

Q2 average deposit beta in Germany at ~39% reflecting strong inflow of call money and mix shift in CC – average beta for 2024 expected at ~39% subject to volume development (~€90m annualized sensitivity to +/-1pp beta change)

Replication portfolio

Deposit replication portfolio increased by €10bn to €133bn; replication portfolios expected to contribute additional ~€400m in 2024 vs 2023; a larger replication portfolio supports future NII while reducing 2024 results

mBank

NII expected significantly above 2023 level

1) Outlook based on forward rates as of end July 2024

2) Deposit beta is the average interest pass-through rate to customers across interest bearing and non-interest bearing deposit products based on ECB deposit rate

Growth in fee business – on track to reach FY 4% target

Net commission income (€m)

Promising 4.5% growth of fee income year on year

Corporate Clients (CC) with good contribution mainly from the syndicated business leading to 2.7% higher NCI YoY

Private and Small-Business Customers Germany (PSBC Germany) with 5.4% higher NCI YoY driven by the securities business

mBank has increased margins and benefits from FX effects YoY

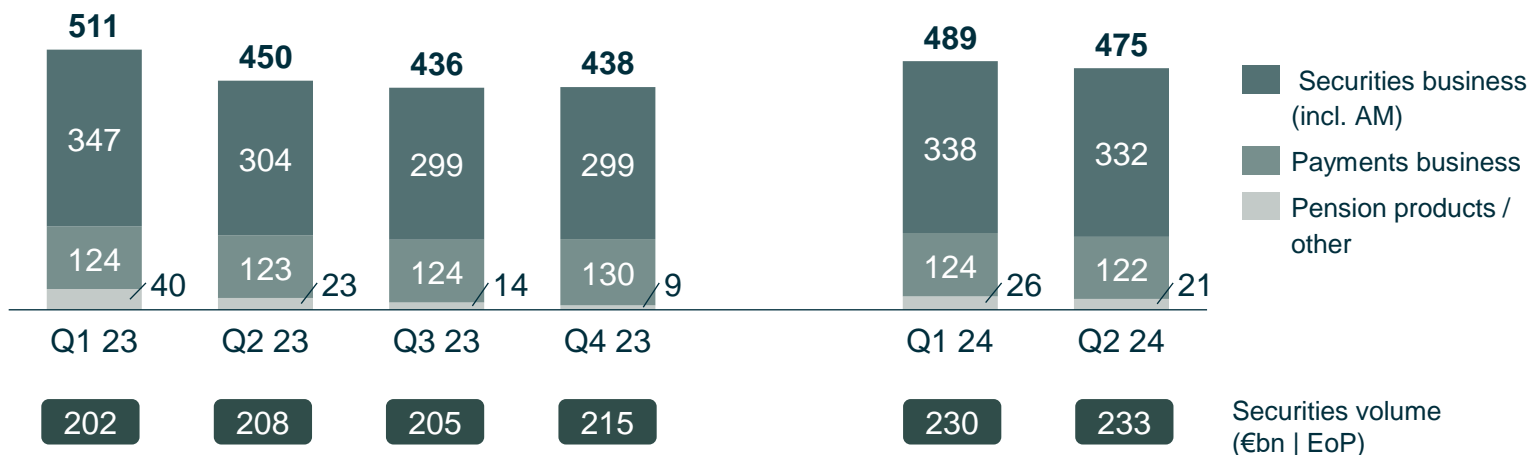

Broad-based growth of NCI year on year

Net commission income Corporate Clients (€m)

Net commission income PSBC Germany (€m)

Corporate Clients

In Capital Markets YoY strong growth from DCM business (bond issuance and syndications), more than offsetting slightly weaker FX business

Trade finance with YoY slight increase

Private and Small-Business Customers Germany

YoY increased securities revenues from volume growth and higher number of transactions

QoQ securities volume up €3bn with €1.1bn from net new money in Q2

Payments business nearly stable YoY

Costs continue to be on track

Costs (€m)

Total Group costs below last year due to lower compulsory contribution

Operating expenses for Group ex mBank are slightly higher than last year because of general salary increases in Q3 2023. These increases were partially offset by active cost management

Operating expenses for mBank rose as a result of investments in business growth and FX effects

Decreasing European bank levy in 2024 due to suspended contribution to Single Resolution Fund as target volume has been reached

Risk result on 2023 level – guidance 2024 unchanged

Latest development

The German economy remains weak. After rising slightly in the first quarter, real gross domestic product fell again slightly in the second quarter. Apart from these short-term fluctuations, economic output has been stagnating for more than two years.

The recent decline in sentiment indicators has put a noticeable damper on hopes of an economic upturn in the second half of the year. The dampening effect of the interest rate hikes implemented by the ECB and many other Western central banks over the past two years is clearly only slowly diminishing. The same applies to the impact of higher energy prices.

The number of unemployed people has risen in recent months due to the weak economy. However, unemployment remains significantly lower than it has been for most of the past 40 years.

The inflation rate has only been just above the ECB target of 2% for several months. However, excluding the often highly volatile energy and food prices, the core inflation rate is still significantly higher at just under 3%.

Outlook for 2024

In view of the recent fall in leading indicators, it is increasingly likely that the weak trend of the German economy will continue well into the second half of the year. It will obviously take longer for the economy to adjust to the higher interest rates. The adjustment of construction output to the significantly lower demand due to higher financing costs is therefore unlikely to be complete.

However, a recovery can be expected in the coming year. This is because the burden from high interest rates should then gradually ease and rising real wages should boost private consumption. Nonetheless, a strong upturn is not to be expected. This is because numerous structural problems are slowing down the German economy and financial policy is likely to be rather restrictive.

Following an initial step in June, the ECB is likely to cut interest rates further, albeit at a fairly cautious pace and to a lesser extent than at the start of previous recovery phases. After all, it will become increasingly clear in the coming months that the inflation problem has not yet been solved. In fact, both in Germany and in the eurozone as a whole, service prices will continue to rise strongly as a result of rapidly increasing wage costs. The core inflation rate is therefore likely to stabilize at well above 2% and prevent the ECB from easing its monetary policy.

IAS 19: Development of pension obligations

Cumulated actuarial gains and losses (€m)

- Pension obligations (gross)
- Cumulated OCI effect¹
- Discount rate in %²

1) OCI effect driven by development of plan assets versus pension obligations, after tax, without minorities; cumulated since 1/1/2013 (new IAS19 standard) including possible restatements
 2) Discount rate for German pension obligations (represents 97% of Group pension obligations)

In Q2 24, the relevant market rates went upwards, moving the IAS19 discount rate to 4.0% in Q2 versus 3.7% at year-start. The present-valued pension obligations (DBO) therefore decreased, producing a YtD liability gain in OCI

On the same rates movement, pension assets produced a YtD asset loss in OCI due to lower bond valuations, which was partly compensated by equity gains

Together, pension obligations and pension assets produced a YtD net OCI gain of +€89m (after tax) on Group level

The discount rate is derived from an AA-rated government bond basket, re-calibrated on corporate bond level, with an average duration of roughly 14 years

The funding ratio (plan assets vs. pension obligations) is 109% across all Group plans

FX impact on CET1 ratio

Disclaimer

This presentation contains forward-looking statements. Forward-looking statements are statements that are not historical facts; they include, inter alia, statements about Commerzbank's beliefs and expectations and the assumptions underlying them. These statements are based on plans, estimates, projections and targets as they are currently available to the management of Commerzbank. Forward-looking statements therefore speak only as of the date they are made, and Commerzbank undertakes no obligation to update any of them in light of new information or future events. By their very nature, forward-looking statements involve risks and uncertainties. A number of important factors could therefore cause actual results to differ materially from those contained in any forward-looking statement. Such factors include, among others, the conditions in the financial markets in Germany, in Europe, in the United States and elsewhere from which Commerzbank derives a substantial portion of its revenues and in which it holds a substantial portion of its assets, the development of asset prices and market volatility, potential defaults of borrowers or trading counterparties, the implementation of its strategic initiatives and the reliability of its risk management policies.

In addition, this presentation contains financial and other information which has been derived from publicly available information disclosed by persons other than Commerzbank ("external data"). In particular, external data has been derived from industry and customer-related data and other calculations taken or derived from industry reports published by third parties, market research reports and commercial publications. Commercial publications generally state that the information they contain has originated from sources assumed to be reliable, but that the accuracy and completeness of such information is not guaranteed and that the calculations contained therein are based on a series of assumptions. The external data has not been independently verified by Commerzbank. Therefore, Commerzbank cannot assume any responsibility for the accuracy of the external data taken or derived from public sources.
