Q3e: Cost savings continue to bear fruit ; chg.

NFON will release Q3 figures on November 23rd, which are seen to show steady top-line growth paired with sound profitability following the implementation of several cost-saving measures.

Q3 recurring revenues are expected to increase by 5.6% to € 19.4m based on an increased seat base (eNuW: +1.6% gog to 650k) as well as a pickup in airtime. Overall sales are set to grow 3.5% yoy to € 21.0m, implying a recurring revenue ratio of 93% which allows for good visibility in light of the company's high customer retention (churn rate < 1% p.m.).

Q2 adj. EBITDA looks set to significantly increase to € 1.5m (Q3'22: € 0.7m), implying a margin of 7.2%. The strong improvement in profitability is mainly attributable to the ongoing implementation of costsaving measures in connection with reduced marketing as well as personnel expenses.

On this basis, we expect management to confirm its FY guidance of ARR growth in the mid to high single-digit percentage range (eNuW: +5%), an ARR ratio of at least 88% (eNuW: 92.9%) and an adj. EBITDA of \in 6-7m (eNuW: \in 6.6m). Mind you, the adj. EBITDA guidance was already upgrade with the Q2 numbers (previously $> \in 4m$).

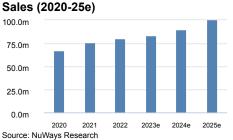

Overall, the company appears to remain on track to grasp the growth potential in the still under penetrated European PBX market. On top of this, NFON is seen to significantly benefit from cross-selling thanks to well perceived premium products like CC Hub, which should allow for a continuous margin expansion going forward. While 2023e will still be a transitional year, the measures implemented by the new CEO Patrik Heider are seen to show full effect in 2024e as we estimate significantly improving profitability as well as a positive FCF generation (eNuW: € 1.7m) for the first time since the IPO.

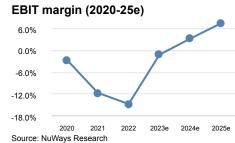

With than in mind, the current valuation appears undemanding. Shares are trading on depressed levels of 1.2x EV/Sales 2023e (vs 2x historic average).

Reiterate our BUY recommendation with an unchanged PT of € 10.50 based on DCF.

4. Information Concerning the Methods of Valuation/Update

The determination of the fair value per share, i.e. the price target, and the resultant rating is done on the basis of the adjusted free cash flow (adj. FCF) method and on the basis of the discounted cash flow – DCF model. Furthermore, a peer group comparison is made.

The adj. FCF method is based on the assumption that investors purchase assets only at a price (enterprise value) at which the operating cash flow return after taxes on this investment exceeds their opportunity costs in the form of a hurdle rate of 7.5%. The operating cash flow is calculated as EBITDA less maintenance capex and taxes.

Within the framework of the DCF approach, the future free cash flows are calculated initially on the basis of a fictitious capital structure of 100% equity, i.e. interest and repayments on debt capital are not factored in initially. The adjustment towards the actual capital structure is done by discounting the calculated free cash flows with the weighted average cost of capital (WACC), which takes into account both the cost of equity capital and the cost of debt. After discounting, the calculated total enterprise value is reduced by the interest-bearing debt capital in order to arrive at the equity value.

NuWays AG uses the following three-step rating system for the analysed companies:

Buy: Sustainable upside potential of more than 20% within 12 months

Sell: Sustainable downside potential of more than 20% within 12 months.

Hold: Upside/downside potential is limited. No immediate catalyst visible.
