

REA featured in RSPO's first Guest Insights article

,

REA has been featured in the first edition of the Roundtable on Sustainable Palm Oil's (RSPO) Guest Insights column, a new platform that provides insights into current developments shaping sustainability in the palm oil sector throughout the sustainable palm oil value chain.

In this feature, Dr. Bremen Yong, REA's Chief Sustainability Officer, shares insights on the importance of shared responsibility and inclusive partnerships in advancing sustainability. The article highlights REA's ongoing efforts to support independent smallholders through initiatives like the SHINES programme, which strengthens capacity, improves market access, and supports alignment with global standards, including the European Union Deforestation Regulation (EUDR).

REA is delighted to contribute to this conversation and thanks RSPO for the opportunity to share the group's experience in promoting a more transparent, inclusive, and responsible palm oil industry.

Read the full article here: <https://rspo.org/nurturing-shared-responsibility-for-the-future-of-palm-oil/>